

Our Voices

Our voices are about rediscovering our curiosity and exposing that capitalism is the tragedy in society that distances women from equality. We seek to unmask those who have been silenced and give them the agency to share their experiences and voice with the world as a historical and experiential reference as to why and how women are oppressed. By raising awareness about the strict gender binary, we are dismantling stereotypes and saying “fuck you!” We seek to show that religion and feminism don’t have to be at odds and that the nuclear family isn’t the only definition of family. We encourage giving young women hope when no one understands, owning who you are, and being free to express yourself in ways that make you happy. Be you, do you! Don’t let the bastards grind you down!

Mel Brown, WMS, PSH ‘18

Julia DeGross, WMS, SOC, ‘17

Rachael Fort, WMS ‘17

Audrey Lai, WMS ‘17

Becky Luxon, WMS ‘17

Annette Maldonado, WMS ‘17

Maggie Rosen, WMS ‘17

Tambria Schroeder, WMS, PLS, INT, ‘17

Alise Tallents, WMS, HLS, ‘17

Amber Wilk, WMS ‘17

Kelsey Wright, WMS ‘17